

MEN OF CHURCH BAND TOGETHER IN NEW GROUP

Organization Is Planned As Father-Son Banquet Feature

MESSAGE BROUGHT BY LISBON PASTOR

Lisbon Men's Class Will Come Sunday to Presbyterian Church

An organization of men embracing all the groups of the First Presbyterian church is to be formed at the outcome of an assembly at the church Tuesday night in observance of Men's night.

With Walter L. Strain as temporary chairman and Elbert H. Vincent as temporary secretary, committee were appointed last night to draft resolutions embodying the name and objects of such an organization, and to nominate permanent officers.

Father-Son Banquet

These committees will report at the next big event for men of the church on Thursday evening, Nov.
14, which will be the annual Father and Son banquet.

Last night's meeting, presided over by Mr. Strain, was opened with vocal selections by the Presbyterian male quartet and violin selections by John L. Hundertmark, accompanied on the piano by his father, John W. Hundertmark.

Rev. R. D. Walter introduced as the speaker, Rev. J. Morgan Cox, pastor of the Lisbon Presbyterian church, whose subject was "The Great American Tragedy." This he referred to as the problem of crime which he said would result in a degeneration of this country in a few years unless it is stemmed.

Men of the church declared, Rev.
Cox must face and solve the problem by entering their attention on what he termed the breeding place of crime—the youth of the land. He said crime cannot be solved by killing the criminals.

Lisbon Class Coming

The Lisbon pastor also urged the men to cooperate in all church activities and he outlined how men's organizations, similar to the one proposed by the Salem church, had been organized in other churches where he has been pastor.

Next Sunday morning the men's class of the Lisbon Presbyterian church will be the guests of the Salem church. The lesson will be from the Bible class of the Salem church. Judge Lodge Riddle of the Salem Kiwanis club, who is the Salem men, as he said he had been advised that about 75 Lisbon men are planning to come.

EGGS DISCUSSED BY POULTRYMEN

C. M. Ferguson Speaker At Salem Meeting of N. E. O. Group

Speaking on "The Production and Care of Quality Eggs," C. M. Ferguson, extension poultryman from Ohio State university, told a gathering of members of the Northeastern Ohio Poultry association, meeting at the Salona Supply Co., last night, that the three most important factors in producing quality eggs are breeding, feeding and caring.

150 Members

Organized in June, 1934, for the purpose of cooperative marketing of eggs, the N. E. O. association now lists approximately 150 members in six counties, Columbiana, Mahoning, Trumbull, Portage, Carroll and Stark.

The majority of the marketing of the N. E. O. group is done in Picaburgh, direct to the retailers, hotels and restaurants. This plan of marketing is in line with a similar plan in Connecticut for the marketing of eggs. The N. E. O. association is the only cooperative group in Ohio which uses the Connecticut plan.

The size of the eggs usually produced by chickens is mostly inherited," Ferguson said. "However, by taking the chickens which lay the larger eggs and breeding them properly, a uniform size large egg may be produced."

Need Balanced Ratio

"The feeding that is necessary to produce quality eggs is a good balanced ratio," he said. "Chickens that eat only worms, bugs and what they find in the fields will not lay a good quality egg."

"One of the most important factors in the production of quality eggs," he explained, "is getting them away from body temperature.
Cooling is essential in keeping the eggs fresh and of the best quality."

Preceding the address by Mr.

Ferguson, C. F. Moser of Columbiana, manager of the N. E. O. Poultry association, outlined the work and the progress of the group during the past year.

Another meeting of the association will be held at the N. E. O. plant in Columbiana at 6 p. m.
Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Cornhuskers Prepare for County Contest on Friday

Corn growers of Columbiana county are showing wide interest in the corn husking contest to be held on the Edwin King farm on the Gavers-Millport road on Friday, according to Ernest Moser, chairman of the committee in charge.

Twelve contestants will compete at 9:30 a. m. for the honor of husking the most corn in 80 minutes.
The winner will compete in the state contest to be held on the Wunder farm, five miles west of Paulding, O., on Nov. 1. County Aunt Floyd Lower at Lisbon is receiving the applications for those who want to enter the county contest.

From 1 to 2 p. m. G. H. String-field of the Ohio Experiment station will discuss hybrid corn and will demonstrate how it is produced. Following this program, 30-minute contests for ladies; men 65 years of age and over; boys and girls 16 years of age and under; and persons not now farming, will be held. Prizes donated by merchants will be awarded as follows:

Men's Contest
First prize, five tons No. 2 lime and 500 pounds fertilizer.
Second prize, five tons No. 2 lime.
Third prize, five gallons motor oil.

Glenn Esserwein, 28, of R. D. 2, New Waterford, was badly injured at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday while working with an FERA crew repairing a brick road at New Waterford.

Esserwein suffered a fractured pelvis and internal injuries when he was thrown from a truck when the vehicle hit a rut in the road and a heavy tool box toppled off the truck onto the New Waterford

His condition at Salem City hospital where he was taken was reported improved today.

Vote In Lisbon

Farmers will decide on Saturday whether or not they favor an other corn-hog program designed to hold corn production within desirable limits and prevent excessive increases in hog numbers. There will be no program unless a sufficient number of farmers vote for one in the referendum. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration at Washington has stated.

The city hall at Lisbon has been designated the polling place for Columbiana county. Polls will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. Saturday. All producers of corn or hogs in 1935 are eligible to vote.

Patrolman Booked At Grange Session

Patrolman A. E. Mercer of the local barracks of the Highway patrol, will be the speaker when Salem grange convenes at the hall Friday night. Other features of the program will be: Roll call, "A Halloween Prank"; a play, "Sult the Professor"; violin solo, Blaine Hart.
The lecture hour will be open to the public.

Charities Leaders See Good Outlook

Committee reports occupied the session last night of the Salem Associated Charities when the group met at the Memorial building. The reports indicated a favorable outlook for the year's work, officers said.

Next Wednesday night the organization will meet at the Elks home.

Chorine Selector Says Girls More Natural, Pretty

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Young women, in the opinion of Harry S.
Kaufman, selector of chorines, have ceased trying to thwart nature—and consequently are becoming more beautiful.

"Not only are they putting on flesh where it belongs," he said today as he reviewed a parade of pulchritude vying for the next edition of the Ziegfeld follies, "but they are letting their hair grow naturally in both color and length."

Kaufman believes the girls in the forthcoming show will be as lovely as those personally nominated by the late Flo Ziegfeld.

He told about the 1936 edition of the "Ziegfeld Girl".

"Five feet five inches in height, 118 to 124 pounds, 17 to 23 years of age they average and (a most important feature) in walking grace they are superior to the girls of Ziegfeld's time."

Other statistics:
The girls will be predominantly curvilinear (a figure bearing a bass violin or hour type). Boyish figures are definitely out.

Bearing out Kaufman's observation, the first two rows of the chorus will feature brunettes.

Unless something extraordinary happens in the next two calls for talent, only three red heads will be in the show. Kaufman has issued three calls for girls and about 2,200 have responded.

CORN-HOG TALK GIVEN BY HEIM

County Farmers To Vote
In Lisbon Saturday
On Program

"Some increase in hog production is desirable both from the standpoint of farmers and consumers, since hog numbers were drastically cut by the shortage of feed resulting from the 1934 drouth," C. W. Heim, president of the Columbiana County Corn-Hog Control association, said at a meeting of producers held at Hanover-ton Tuesday night.

"The danger, however, is that the increase will get out of hand as it has in past years and eventually react against both the producer and the pork user," Mr. Heim pointed out.

See High Prices
"On the basis of present feed supplies, unlimited increases in hog numbers and uncontrolled corn acres, there will be 50 per cent more corn for each hog in the next two years than there was as an average for the previous five years.

This forebodes an unprecedented increase in hog production with subsequent disastrous consequences in hog prices, reduced farm buying power, restricted trade in industrial products, forced liquidation in the swine industry, and eventually another period of high pork prices for the consumer," in Mr. Heim's opinion.

"Ten such violent up and down's or cycles, during the last 45 years have undermined the swine industry, brought violent changes in pork prices, destroyed farm buying power, and wiped out markets for industrial products," Mr. Heim continued.

The meeting at Hanover-ton was one of four meetings being held in Columbiana county to discuss the corn and hog situation and to explain the plans for the national corn-hog referendum to be held on Saturday, Oct. 26. Other meetings are being held at Lisbon, Fairfield Centralized school and New Alexander.

New York Gangster Killed, Set Afire

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Underworld enemies poured gasoline over the nude, hooded body of Louis Amberg early today and left him in a blazing automobile. He was at the seventh to die in a war for alleged control of the East New York slot machine and shakedown rackets.

Detectives identified the body after firemen extinguished the flames and an assistant medical examiner removed the burlap bag tightly around the dead man's head.

The skull had been battered with an ax, police said.

They said they had been hunting Amberg for another killing, but that gangland had found him first.

Patrolmen 'Scare' Sebring Motorists; Arrests Made Here

The Salem state highway patrol evidently has put a "scare" into residents around Sebring.

Local officers reported that the deputy registrar at Sebring informed them that following a recent traffic check in the Sebring highway area, a total of 62 applications for license plate transfer were made within four days.

Ralph T. Griffiths of Salem was fined $100 and costs by Mayor Norman Phillips here Tuesday noon on a charge of driving while intoxicated, following his arrest by highway patrolmen.

C. F. Elson of Salem was fined $12.50 and costs by Justice of the Peace William Rich, Jr., after State Patrolman A. E. Mercer had arrested him for insufficient brakes.

William Stanley of R. D. 2, Beloit, arrested for failure to transfer license plates, was fined $10 and costs by Justice Rich yesterday. Al-don Bacon of R. D. 2, East Palestine, arrested by the patrol for insufficient brakes, was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace Woods at East Palestine.

Possession

Local police, assisted by three agents of the enforcement division of the state department of liquor control, arrested two persons on charges of possession of liquor in two raids Tuesday night.

When arraigned before Mayor Norman Phillips last night, George Ghisou of 928 South Ellsworth ave., was fined $200 and costs, and George were in the race today to succeed the late Charles Truax as Ohio's congressman at large.

welfare director, announced his candidacy for nomination last night in Mount Vernon and listed himself as a Roosevelt supporter.

George Bender and Raymond Jeffers, Republicans of Cleveland, have announced their candidacies.
McSweeney was a congressman for the 16th congressional district for six years and served as state welfare director under former Governor White.

1900 Model Vehicle Makes Coast Jaunt

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 23.—If J. H. Ozmun of Peninsula, Ohio, had found the road down hill all the way from Akron, he could have made the trip here in less than 28 days.

As it was, it took him that long to drive a 1900 model car here. He back to the top speed was 26 miles an hour—down hill.

Ozmun said he was proud of the ancient vehicle even if he did have to stop every few miles and tinker with it. Once, he said, the engine fell apart.

SIDNEY SMITH

Millions of Americans wanted to know every day what the Gumps were doing. Consequently, Sidney Smith, creator of the comic strip in which Andy, Min, Bim and Chester appeared, became a wealthy man.

Mr. Smith was a happy man, also, according to reports. He liked to draw cartoons. It made a good living for him. Whether or not he was conscious of performing a valuable service for his fellowmen cannot be determined.

His death last Sunday morning in an automobile accident, has inspired many tributes to an importance of which Mr. Smith may not have been aware. Perhaps it never occurred to him that the Gumps needed to be taken seriously. His purpose was to make them entertaining.

They have been good fun for two decades. Due to Mr. Smith's selection of a staff of artists and "idea" men who helped him prepare the cartoons which appeared over his name, the Gumps will go on indefinitely. Comic strip readers will not want to be reminded that Andy, Min and Bim are mortal.

They and their friends and enemies have helped to exercise America's chuckle. On occasion, they have excited tears, too, but that was to provide contrast. Sidney Smith was essentially an humorist. Secondly, he was a satirist. In both roles he was a good dramatist, possibly the best of all the cartoonists who have made comic strip drawing one of the distinctively American occupations.

ARTHUR HENDERSON

Genuine affection is rare in politics. Few men aggressive enough to stand up to the competition of public service are blessed with ability to gain devotion as well as respect.

Arthur Henderson, one of Great Britain's solid old men, apparently was one of the blessed few. For a third of a century, until infirmity forced his retirement two years ago, Mr. Henderson never was far from the center of activity in British politics. He achieved success, he commanded respect and he inspired real devotion. His death at the age of 72 deprives England of a pillar in politics.

Mr. Henderson was one of the British public men who came to prominence by way of the Labor party. He served his party and served his government equally well. Unlike some of his contemporaries who were unable to reconcile their party interests with their official duties in the government, he was successful in both fields of activity.

Internationally, Mr. Henderson won fame as an outstanding advocate of peace. In contrast to Ramsay MacDonald, who was his contemporary in Labor politics at the beginning of the World War, Mr. Henderson did not embrace the philosophy of pacifism, however. He added to his political power greatly by yielding to the necessities of the war emergency, while Mr. MacDonald was forced into temporary retirement by standing pat on pacifism.

Curiously, it was Mr. Henderson and not Mr. MacDonald who won recognition in the end for his labors in behalf of peace—the Carnegie peace award in 1933 and the Nobel peace prize in 1934. Mr. Henderson will be missed first of all by the Labor party, which he served capably. He will be missed by Great Britain. He will be missed, also, by the world. Few men attain such stature.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The Tories of the exclusive club-windows, the cold and caustic grumps Peter Arno so delightfully caricatures in those yearly books, do much to give the metropolis its reputation for disdain. In stiff starchiness they sit hour after hour, gazing, and apparently seeing nothing.

They are the last round-up of pious believers, deep rooted in a conviction the horn of plenty never forgets favorites. Their aloofness and rigidity are not confined to the passers-by. In years of observing I have never beheld an exchange of chair-to-chair conversation.

When they arrive in their limousines they do not indulge the slightest nod to the door openers. Or thank those who adjust their deep-cushioned chair and light their cigar. Yet I am told they make up for their gruffness in gratuities. They are clubdom's most liberal tippers.

The old order acquiring the vulgarities of the new is to them unthinkable. In their world these days everything has gone wrong. The ideals for which they stood and their forefathers stood have been scrapped. All is at sixes and sevens. So they sit, sulk and stare.

Julian Eltinge, after several sabbatical years of California ranching, has returned to the make-up box. But no longer in the frilly frocks of a female impersonator. He has always wanted to play he-man roles and has his chance as a rough old miner in a Mae West film. There are notable precedents pre-saging success. After all, Wallace Beery and James Cagney were female impersonators.

Harry Richman is one of the few performers who knows the vagaries of Broadway's mass mind. His success is, of course, largely due to his expertise in putting over a song, but many so talented go stale and jobless. Richman has learned not to let New York tire of him—an old trick of Paul Whiteman's, too. At the peak of some engagement Richman will vanish, showing up in Florida, California or where not for several months or a year. Chaplin expresses this technique. Always in demand, he permits several years to elapse between pictures.

They were talking of audacious rogues who have sky-rocketed across the Tenderloin horizon. The brothers Locke and Gondorf, George Graham Rice, Dapper Dan Collins, Bill Fallon and others of brilliant if perverse minds. Most agreed Nickey Arnstein was the most picturesque. His consummate nerve in riding by a police parade on the avenue in an open car, bowing and waving, when crack criminal hunters were on his trail was an example of his bravado. He looked his adventurous part, too, tall, swarthy, immaculate with flashing eye and Desperate Desmond mustache.

New York's most exclusive movie audiences are often found at the Trans Lux news reel niched on upper Madison. The location in the 50's draws from the Sutton and Beekman places and the aristocratic areas of Fifth and Park aves. From 10 to 11 p.m. it frequently flourishes with what Lucius Beebe calls "the milk and monocle crowd." The reason: Dinner parties killing an hour before descending upon night clubs.

In driving through the Bowery I generally look to see if Fred Bunz's lunchroom is still there. It is the gastronomic lily in a surrounding bog of sawdust-carpeted hash-houses whose windows are scrawled with indigestible horrors. Bunz's is spic and span with modern glitter and white-tiled gloss. A sort of half-way house, one imagines, for those who have left the depths on the long road back.

Vincent Astor has deserted his hobby, long yacht cruising, for a quixotic experiment in New York hotel keeping. In acquiring control of the old established St. Regis he is reputedly expressing the enthusiasm of a child for a new toy. He sponsored the idea of digging the Maxfield Parrish painting, "Old King Cole," out of the Astor warehouse as the cornerstone of the hotel's new "King Cole Room." He likes to fuss around in the various departments to see what makes them tick. Especially in the kitchens.

A Calamity Ike barged in today to gloom: "Behold the type who sent a sharp demand to the boss for a pay boost just an hour after he filed his bankruptcy petition."

Someone told me Ray Noble, the left-handed orchestra leader, circles a cameo ring around his necktie. An old-fashioned revival. Lord Ribblesdale started it in Britain in the Edwardian era. The only exponents I ever saw were Ralph Barton, Lew Cody and William Gilette. I like to round that south-west swing of Central Park at sundown with out-of-town visitors and call attention, quite casually, to the skyline. It never fails to excite oo's. What a painting for Maxfield Parrish. Or an etching by Fred Detweiler.

THE STARS SAY

For Thursday, October 24.

While this day may offer splendid advantages, with business and employment flourishing through the hearty cooperation of superiors or those in places of power and authority, yet there is a menace of neutralizing this through rash, impetuous or quarrelsome behavior. With restraint in this, there is promise of benefits through shrewd correspondence, secret agreements or connivance, and also there is encouragement for speculation, gambling or games of chance.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of some excellent prospects, with employment, big business and finance under favorable rule, but this may be jeopardized by impulsive, reckless and quarrelsome conduct. This should be suppressed in favor of tact, strategy and diplomacy, with secret and confidential undertakings flourishing. Speculation and games of chance should thrive.

A child born on this day may be lively, energetic, talented and particularly popular with employers and those in power. However, it may be impulsive, rash and tempestuous at times.

TREATMENT OF EARACHE

EARACHE is one of the most common of all our complaints. Too often, especially in childhood, it is accepted as something trivial and is treated by home remedies. As a result, in many instances, serious and permanent damage results from unscientific treatment of this delicate organ.

In spite of repeated warnings to children and adults, too, continue to insert foreign bodies, such as needles, hairpins and even safety pins into the ear. The adult will do this in an attempt to relieve itching, or to remove wax from the ear canal. Children resort to this practice, making a playhouse of the ear.

Causes Deafness
A child will poke a pea, bean, bead, stone or piece of chalk into the ear canal. The parent is not told and the child does not complain of pain until some time later. Many cases of temporary, as well as permanent, deafness can be traced to this accident.

It is dangerous to allow any foreign object to remain in the ear. But it must be removed with extreme care and gentleness. Always have a physician do this, as he has necessary instruments for removing the object without hurting the eardrum.

An excessive amount of cerumen wax in the ear is another common annoyance. Bear in mind that when a physician has to remove cerumen, he has to use a special instrument. Never try to remove wax from your own ear. There is always the possibility of doing real harm. Like a foreign body, it should only be removed by one trained in this work.

Delicate Structure
Never pick of fust with the ear or place any sharp or blunt instrument in the ear passage. Remember that the ear is a delicate structure and can easily be damaged. This damage may lead to impaired hearing and even profound deafness.

Let me warn also against self-treatment of inflammation of the ear. Such inflammation, medically termed "otitis media," often follows exposure to cold. Sometimes it can be traced to infected teeth, nasal sinuses or tonsils.

The sufferer complains of pain in the afflicted ear. The pain is increased by movements of the jaw in eating and talking. At times there may be difficulty in hearing, as well as dizziness and ringing in the ears. Never resort to home remedies or medicine unless first advised by your doctor. Neglect of what appears to be a simple infection may lead to prolonged ear discomfort and permanent damage.

FAVORS NEW CITY HALL

EDITOR, THE NEWS: As one who is interested in the good of our city, permit me to express my views relative to the proposed new city hall.

I believe I am one of the average conservative citizens of our city who mainly by hard experience, thrift and a certain amount of self-denial have endeavored to sack a little nest egg for the future.

The present plan by which Salem can obtain 45 per cent of the cost of a new building from government sources strikes me as being a good investment. In fact, I doubt very much if ever again we will have another such opportunity.

There is no doubt in my mind as to the need of such a building right now. My own limited knowledge and understanding convinces me that in any event it will be but a matter of a very few years until necessity will compel us to replace the old building with a new one, when we will be compelled to pay the entire cost. The question then is: Should we build now and save ourselves 45 per cent of the cost or wait until conditions compel us to pay the entire cost? I believe good business judgment would be in favor of building now.

I am not kidding myself on the matter of this free government money, either. I know that the people of Salem are going to have to pay their share of these grants whether we get any of the money or not, and I am selfish to the point of wanting Salem to get at least her share.

Again I realize there are many different opinions relative to type and location, but in such undertakings we must submerge our individual desires to the good of all or we will not get anywhere. I personally feel, after considerable investigation, that city council has decided on the wise course in recommending the bond issue for a new building and I am one of the many who have changed their minds and will vote for the bond issue at the November election.

Today's Pattern

Pattern 2503

If you're one of the smart matrons who have been following the fashion advice Anne Adams has been giving you through this column, you'll recognize pattern 2503 as a "find!" There's the slenderizing deep V in the yoke—again in the back, effectively trimming down the hips; there's feminine softness gathered into the bodice; there's the flattering graceful sleeve. Who knows better than you what soft treatment can do for your waistline? Because you're almost certain to want a "special occasion" frock like this, the pattern provides for angle length also. Choose monotone crepe or satin.

Pattern 2503 is available in sizes 34, 36, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Kidney Victim Found Lasting Relief In Indo-Vin Medicine

"I wouldn't have believed that I could have gone ten months without that awful misery in my back," said Mr. S. L. Rutledge, of 1217 Linden Avenue, Zanesville, Ohio.

"It has been that long since I took Indo-Vin and my trouble has never returned. For a period of years I had been a victim of kidney and bladder trouble. My nights were all shot to pieces, as I had to get up to relieve my kidneys five or six times every night; and I also had sharp pains in my back and felt weak and sore across my kidneys. I tried a lot of medicine and expensive treatments, but got NO RELIEF, until I got Indo-Vin, and three bottles of it have changed me entirely. It drove all of those sharp pains out of my back and put an end to the soreness and misery across my kidneys. I never have to get up at night on account of my kidneys any more. WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of the Morning Rut to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If it is not flowing freely, your food doesn't get to your stomach. You get constipated. The whole system is poisoned and you feel sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up" the less, gentle, yet amazing in making you feel free. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Painter, Ex-Official Of Union Trust, In Jail At Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—Kenyon V. Painter, former stockholder of the defunct Union Trust Co., who owns the bank nearly $2,300,000, rested in the hospital ward of the county jail today.
Painter, a former big game hunter, gave himself up at the jail last night to begin serving a 40-day sentence for contempt of court.
He brought a large bronze desk lamp and an immense suitcase of clothing. He refused to be interviewed.
The surrender came as a surprise.
Painter was sentenced last June for giving evasive answers in an inquiry to determine his assets. The Ohio supreme court recently refused to hear his appeal.
Since the mandate from the supreme court had not arrived last night, county officials were unable to say whether Painter's voluntary residence in the hospital ward would count as part of the 40 days' sentence.
Painter is also under sentence with Wilbur M. Baldwin, former president of the Union Trust, for alleged abstraction and mis-application of bank assets in connection with the release of collateral which had been supporting Painter's loan at the bank. Painter was fined a total of $30,000 and sentenced to an indefinite term in the Ohio penitentiary, but the case has been appealed.

Raging Forest Fire Sweeps California

PASADENA, Calif., Oct. 23.— Burning out of control, with a high

Altadena today was threatening the exclusive Flintridge and Chey-Chase residential districts.
An emergency call was sent to the regional forest service office at San Francisco, asking that a staff of fire fighting experts be sent here by airplane.
A force of 500 CCC workers was battling the flames which at 8 a. m. had cut a path as far west as the Flintridge golf club.
Firefighters managed to stem the flames at the clubhouse and save the building, and barely saved the forest service warehouse where all firefighting equipment for the four southern California forests is stored.

the streets with broken glass, plaster and masonry.
The concussion was felt for miles.
At the Borden Memorial hospital, operated by the China inland mission with American headquarters in Philadelphia, a mile from the arsenal, 1,500 window panes were shattered.
Martial law has prevailed since the blast, which occurred Sunday.
No one is permitted near the scene of the disaster, making it impossible to estimate the loss of life and property.
The sound film will be shown in this city for the first time at 8 p. m.
Thursday at the high school auditorium.

"Home of Tomorrow" Movie To Be Shown

Two of the country's important news subjects, Lowell Thomas and the Westinghouse "Home of Tomorrow," have been linked together in a sound moving picture film.
Thomas, internationally known traveler, writer and radio sound traveler, is in the three-reel sound film taken in the famous "Home of Tomorrow," in which engineers have projected electrical equipment some five years in the future.
The sound film will be shown in
this city for the first time at 8 p. m.
Thursday at the high school auditorium.
Heralded by many architects, engineers and home economists, the "Home of Tomorrow" provides an excellent setting for a sound film.
Electrical equipment, designed for use five years hence, combined with a thoroughly modern, air conditioned home, the first of its kind in the world, adds color and glamour to the picture as it stirs the imagination of the spectators.

Look For Jockey To Give Self Up Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 23.— Willie (Smoky) Saunders, the dapper little jockey who rode Omaha to victory in the Derby and the Preakness, was reported today to have made arrangements to contact authorities here in person with counsel for questioning in the auto ride slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Sil-winski.
Previously Assistant Chief of Detectives William A. Oeltjen had said he expected the famous jockey to surrender "some time during the day" but that if he failed to appear "within a reasonable time" he would be considered a fugitive and an indictment would be asked of the grand jury.
Sought for questioning in the slaying of the 24-year-old, party-loving married woman, Saunders was reported to have left Baltimore Monday night for Louisville.

Equal Treatment For All Counties

COLUMBUS, Oct. 23.—Federal relief officials said today, all counties will be treated equally in the allotment of November relief funds for Ohio.
C. C. Stillman, administrator, emphasized that cooperative counties "will not be left out in the cold."
"We have informal advices," he said, "that the money will be available Nov. 1, but we do not know the amount."
"There will be no discrimination in handling relief for November against those counties who are aggressively and cooperatively trying to handle their own problems," he added.

Steel Men See
Further Gains

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Authorities in the steel industry point to the five-year high in production operations rate this week as an indication that employment and payrolls may extend recent gains.
Steel makers this week operated their plants at 51.8 per cent of capacity, as estimated by the American Iron & Steel Institute, the highest October level since 1930.
On that basis September and October payrolls and employment are expected by some to surpass August figures.

May Drop Lottery

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—United States District Attorney Emerich Freud advised cancellation today of a drawing at Lorain, O., for a $100-000 cash prize or title to the Antlers hotel in Lorain.
After talking to Albert Williams, secretary of the Lorain lodge of Elks, Freud quoted him as saying the lodge had nothing to do with the drawing set for Nov. 28, which is under postal investigation.

DELAY SEEN IN CANAL PROJECT

New Survey On Erie-Ohio Waterway Seen By Engineers

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Because only a "horseback survey" was made of a proposed all-Pennsylvania route for a Lake Erie-Ohio river canal, any move by the government toward constructing such a waterway must await the new year.

President Roosevelt's allotment board once approved a $5,000,000 expenditure to start digging on the Beaver-Mahoning link of such a canal. However, a tangle arose in congress, the outcome of which delayed indefinitely any federal action on the waterway.

Plan New Survey

Army engineers said today there would be no further action on the project until a new survey of the proposed French creek route—the all-Pennsylvania way—has been completed. This survey is expected to be finished sometime in December.

Upon completion of the actual survey, the army engineers must prepare a report for congress, probably requiring an additional several weeks.

In the meantime, it was learned, nothing will be done about constructing the Beaver-Mahoning canal, originally designed as one link in the route to the lake. The latter project was approved by the army engineers but was blocked in the last congress. An amendment to the omnibus rivers and harbors bill, introduced by Senator Guffey (D. Pa.) stipulated the project could be undertaken only on "all the way to the lake or nothing" basis.

The Beaver-Mahoning waterway as assessed as a "stub-end" canal which, ending at Struthers, Ohio, would benefit only two large Ohio steel companies at the expense of others in Pittsburgh and vicinity. Canalization of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers would cost approximately $37,000,000.

Engineers have estimated the cost of extending the canal all the way to the lake variously between $140,000,000 and $200,000,000.

Relocate Highways, Railroads to Make Way for 14 Lakes

(By Associated Press)

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—A gigantic task of relocating utilities, railroads and highways in the Muskingum watershed conservancy district is underway.

District engineers estimate a cost of approximately $14,000,000 for relocations to make room for 14 dams and reservoirs. Total cost of the conservancy district will be $34,090,000.

Construction work has been under way several months on the dams. The utilities relocations have been divided among 104 different jobs, calling for changes in 78 miles of gas and oil pipe lines and 272 miles of electric, telephone and telegraph lines.

A total of 68.1 miles of railroad tracks will be relocated in the reservoir areas—32.17 miles of main track and 16.44 miles of sidings. Rail relocations affect the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Erie and Wheeling and Lake Erie railroads.

Approximately 150 miles of state, federal, county and township roads will be relocated by the state highway department and the federal bureau of public roads over a three-year period. More than 11 miles of highway relocation has been completed.

Cuba Clearing Away Debris Piled Up By Tropical Hurricane

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Oct. 23.—Eastern Cuba cleared away today debris piled up by a tropical hurricane which killed from one to four persons and injured 29.

The storm apparently was blowing itself out over Oriente province. A high pressure area kept it from pushing northward toward the Bahamas.

In Santiago one woman was killed. An unconfirmed report from Calmanera, which was evacuated as a precautionary measure before the hurricane struck, said three persons had drowned.

The storm had killed three persons in Jamaica before howling into Oriente province. Jamaica fruit growers suffered a loss estimated at $2,500,000.

Properly damaged in Eastern Cuba was considerably less than anticipated, although Santiago, which apparently bore the brunt of the storm, was strewn with debris.

TWO MEN FAIL IN JAIL BREAK

Alert Deputy Sheriff Keeps Alleged Murderers at Warren

(By Associated Press)

WARREN, Oct. 23.—Two men charged with first degree murder were in solitary confinement today, their attempt to escape from the county jail foiled by an alert deputy sheriff.

Frank Sexton, special deputy, said that as he was approaching the jail to go on duty at 11 p. m., last night he noticed a Negro leaning out a window that ordinarily is barred. He sounded an alarm, and officers seized LeRoy Keith, the Negro, and Ray Julia before they could reach to the ground.

Jail Guard F. H. Flickinger said the two had sawed four steel bars from their cell windows, had broken the lock on the door, and with a five-foot steel bar from the Locking mechanism had dug a great hole in the concrete floor.

A hacksaw blade was discovered in Julia's sock, the jailer said. It required more than an hour for officers to break open the cell door while others outside guarded the open window.

Both Julia and Keith are 21 years old. Keith is due to go on trial Monday, charged with the slaying of Fred Grist in a robbery July 24, 1934. He once received the death penalty, but won a new trial on appeal.

Julia is awaiting trial in the death of Mrs. James Tobin, who was slain last May in what the state charges was a fit of passion.
